RULES POINTED OUT FOR MOTORBOAT SPORTSMEN

Most of us enjoy the pleasures of boating, whether it be just joy riding in small craft or the use of a boat or canoe for fishing and hunting, frequently overlook the fact a legislative program is necessary in keeping boating on a sane keel.

Frankly, most of us take boating for granted and never think much about the laws that are needed to control the sport. But not the OutboardBoating Club of America, virtual watchdog over the sport.

The Boating Club recently completed a model boating law, drafted primarily for referral to all state legislatures concerned with small boat regulation. And that means every state, for boating is an important sport in each one.

After a study of the model

OBC law, it is easy to see that the suggested law provides the maximum of regulation with a minimum restriction. That is the way it should be, and sportsmen should see that we have this type of boating law.

The model law is based on broad provisions recommending observance of safe operating speeds and careful navigation at all times, and the prohibiting of reckless navigation.

The outstanding feature of the law is "that every motor-driven boat approaching or passing a canoe, rowboat, sailing vessel or bathing beach shall be slowed

NEW CHEMICAL PROLONGS LIFE OF FARM FENCE POSTS

By Robert R. Rider

A chemical treatment to prolong fence post life is now practical. The chemical, pentachlorophenol makes it possible for a farmer to cut his own posts and treat them satisfactorily at home.

It isn't exactly a new chemical in the nation. It has also been used in the treatment of agricultural experiment stations tested in federal government test plots with excellent results. This chemical with the six syllable name is being put on the market in quantity.

Penta can be bought in solution form under various trade names. It is a simple matter to stand posts on end in a barrel, let them soak in the solution for a day or so, and end up with a treated post with lengthened, serviceable life.

Posts must be peeled and well seasoned so that they will soak up enough of the solution. If cut in late fall or winter, posts, will season slowly, as a rule with less checking than in the warmer months.

The cost of preservation treatment will increase the cash outlay some but by allying the use of woods otherwise not considered suitable for posts and by lengthening the life of posts considerably, fencing costs and especially the time and expense of maintaining and replacing posts, can be materially reduced.

More definite information on the chemical treatment of posts can be obtained at the county Agent's office.

Church Grove School News

Our fifth month ended with Rev. Elbert M. Young, pastor of the Benton Church of Christ, conducting our Chapel exercise for January 14. We enjoyed very much having him and the visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Clint English, Mrs. Leonard Cope, Mrs. Loyd Smith and son, Dennis Loyd.

We have had several visitors this month and we like for you to visit us. As long as the parents and friends come to school we know you are interested in a good school. That is what we want too.

We worked hard for 100 percent attendance this month but the Chicken Fox visited our school. It dropped to 98 percent. That isn't bad though.

Our Community club meets Friday night, January 21. We have planned a short program so don't forget to come.

We welcome Doyle and Cecil Henson to our school. We can always glad to have new children.

We hated to lose Billy Ray English and Ronnie Sheppard. Billie Ray went to Hardin and Ronnie moved to Morganfield. Come back to see us boys.

Threads, in the American Tapestry..

THREADING through the American tapestry, the NC&StL line has been part of the Southern picture for more than one hundred years. To have been an integral part of the nation for such a period of time is, above all else, evidence of public confidence and esteem. For without public approval and patronage the NC&StL could not have grown and prospered with the South.

With a good start on its second century of progress, the NC&StL is serving the South today with the very finest in rail transportation. Its plans for the future are twofold: to continue in giving the best in modern transportation service—to help, wherever possible, in the growth and development of the Southland it serves.

A Plan for the Future Or A Plan for the Present

THE DRUMMOND is a Cape Cod style, story-and-a-half house with a one-car attached garage. The first floor of this home has a living room with a screened porch opening from one end; a modern, step-saving, completely cabined kitchen-dinette combination, with a broom and general storage cabinet on the inside wall, and a small bedroom which can also be used as a den, office or library. The second floor has two bedrooms, a sewing room or nursery and plenty of all-important roomy closet space.

A pleasing feature of the Drummond is the front hall. Any of the rooms can be reached from it without entering another first. The side entrance hall gives handy access to the garage, basement, kitchen, downstairs laundry and bedroom.

The main body of this house is 30' x 28' with full basement. The overall dimensions are 46' x 28'. The floor area is 906 sq. feet.

We hope we can be of Service to you on your plans for a New Home. We invite you to discuss your plans with us.

Observations

It is a fact that for the past 15 years most of us have been so busy we haven't had time, or just haven't tried, to study much concerning where we are headed. It seems we have fallen for the "dollar type" thinking and have overlooked the real facts.

We have developed hundreds of new offices and agencies to look after certain businesses that I think ought to be looked after by private business, instead of having these things supervised by a number of political appointees who know little, and care less than anybody where we are headed.

Hundreds of times we hear it said: "Isn't that agency doing a good work?" Invariably the answer must be "yes." And perhaps the job is a good one. BUT, the question is, IS THE job worth what it costs, and could it be done better in other ways? We know there is good in many of our state and federal agencies, but are they worth what they are now and will cost in the end?

What about the apparently useless agencies that investigate the whys, wherefores, and whereases of horse flies? This agency may be good for the comfort of old Dobbin, but is it worth what it costs. . . . that is one of the several matters we have been overlooking. We are paying a price now and may find out the quality later, and no doubt it will be a "no exchange, no refund" deal.

If only our Congressmen and Senators could grasp the difference in going into business and helping the American people to stay in business. I would not want to live under a government that would not help the people in times of distress and neither is it a good feeling when you have a government go in business with the public's money and put you out of business.

If Congress passes the 75c per hour minimum wage law, I am wondering what will happen to thousands of small business firms. Whether it will apply to farm help, and whether it may not act as a boomerang by helping create a lot of unemployment. There is no doubt but what a large number of small business men will have to do a lot of hard figuring on how to pay 75c per hour to the janitor and many other jobs that now give employment to thousands.

And, there's another point to consider. If you are forced to pay the janitor about as much as you do the first vice-president what will the incentive be for promotion? Why would the janitor want to be vice-president and have all the added responsibilities when he making as much where he is. Why would a young farmer want to own a home and farm to pay taxes upon it if he can make as much without these added worries. The worker's wages will be guaranteed by the government (all of us), while the businessman and the farmer isn't guaranteed anything by anybody and neither have any insurance against a bad crop year.

The farmer may have subsidized payments on one item, but he does not have subsidized payments of bad crop years. Lay off the 75c man? What if you can't, you may have a lot of other things to look after that are not on the subsidy list. That is no way to treat your government anyway. Didn't they help you with the subsidy, and besides, if you lay off men you are helping create unemployment. The thing is simply you must pay the 75c man whether he earns it or not. Whether you make it or not. . . . the government says you must.

There is a big difference in a government helping the people and the government going into business with your tax money. No doubt there are instances where we need federal regulation for protection, but there is no immediate need for any government dictating what shall or shall not be done to farmers and small business in this nation. We have fought dictatorships in two or three places and on the surface we hear something about it cropping up in other places, but most of us have been too busy and too weary to take a peek under our own bed.

Somehow I can't console myself with thoughts that our lawmakers are so in love with you and all of us, that they pass laws they ought to know cannot be lived up to, especially with all these restriction of privileges. Somehow or other there seems to be a hidden hand being played about and one of very selfish motives. Could it be true that the people govern no more; that authority is passing into another sphere of American life. Has that that good old Democratic doctrine of "government by the people and for the people" about perished from our land?

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cannon, of Route 2, were Saturday visitors in Benton.

H. R. Davenport, of Route 1, was a business visitor here Saturday.

No Greater Prophet

Lesson for January 23, 1949

"OF ALL the characters in history, which one do you admire most?" We know how Jesus answered that interesting question. He had a great array of personages from whom to make his selection. But he took at the Great Man of all time, up to his own generation, no heroic figure from the past, no king, general, scholar or prophet. The greatest man, for Jesus—or at least one so great that he could think of none greater—was one of his own contemporaries, a cousin of his who was in jail at the time when Jesus said of him, "Among those born of women none is greater than John." Known to us as John the Baptist, that is, John the Baptizer, we seldom realize either his greatness or the close connection between his life and that of Jesus.

John of the Jordan

WE DO NOT know how much Jesus himself owed to John. We do know that John was the man who first called the public's attention to Jesus. John it was who gave some of Jesus' most important disciples their first training; John who introduced to Jesus, and turned over to him, some of his own followers. It may be significant too that Jesus' first preaching was identical with that of John (compare Matthew 3:2 and 4:17).

Some Christian scholars have gone so far as to suppose that it was John's preaching that stirred the young carpenter from Nazareth to leave his shop and begin his great work as teacher.

Whether this is so or not, we do know that it was the baptizing by John which led to the baptism of Jesus, and that Jesus' baptism was the turning-point between Jesus' private life and his short and stormy public career. It is quite clear that if there had been no John the Baptist, the story of Jesus would have been very different from what it actually was.

Only a Voice

JOHN'S own picture of himself is not a picture at all. When they asked him to say what he was, and half-expected him to declare that he was the Messiah, the long-looked-for King, John said only, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness."

John, so far as we know, never accepted dinner invitations, he was never under the roof of any friend, and he had no roof of his own. People even called him demon-possessed, he was so far removed from ordinary life.

But Jesus was always in people's homes. That is one reason why the greatness of Jesus, for a Voice makes a poor companion. Jesus had the human sympathy that John lacked, and John well knew this. "He must increase, but I must decrease," he said.

Repentance: Seed and Fruit

NEVERTHELESS the "Voice" spoke truth. John must have been a powerful preacher, for his meetings were held miles from the nearest town, so that to reach him from Jerusalem one would have to travel through wild country, infested with bandits. Few modern preachers, without benefit of advertising, music or choir, without even a tent, would dare to start a revival meeting 15 rough miles out of town. But John did—and the people came in crowds. We do not have the full report of his preaching that we have of the preaching of Jesus, but we do know that he broke the hard crust of his listeners' conscience.

He made them see how unfit they were for the Kingdom of God for which they prayed; he broke down their pride till they went down to the Jordan and were baptized under the open sky, in public confession of their sins.

When men asked him, What shall we do? John did not have the fuller, higher message that Jesus later had. But he did make plain two things about the good life, the life that pleases God: It cannot even begin without repentance and confession of sin, but it does not end there. Repentance is not a simple granite milestone on life's way; it is a seed which if it is real will bear fruit.
